Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter, which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1 and 4-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 1 is indefinite due to the fact that it is unclear what is actually being claimed by the phrase "wherein the rim body has a rim body portion from the join position to a boundary position". It is unclear whether the rim body portion is defined by being located between the join and boundary positions, etc.

Claim 6 is indefinite due to the fact that it is unclear which rim thickness is being referred to in the claim. Multiple rim thicknesses has been previously set forth in claim 1. Therefore, it is unclear whether the disk is thicker than only one of the rim thicknesses or all rim thicknesses.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.
4. Claims 1 and 4-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Manabe (JP 10-278501).

As best understood, Manabe shows a rim with all of the physical features as set forth in the claims. The thickness of the disk portion is greater than at least thickness T(c).

Manabe does not disclose the relationship (i.e. the specific dimensions) of rim thicknesses of adjacent equal sections. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to provide the rim of Manabe with adjacent equal portions having average thicknesses of 0.5mm or more, generally being between 3-8mm on the disk side and 2-3mm on the flange side, in order to reduce the thickness (and thus weight) of the rim while still retaining suitable strength properties to prevent the rim from failing during use.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 18 May 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The Applicant argues surprising and unexpected results to overcome the rejection, and refers to the table of test results set forth in the specification.

However, this argument is unpersuasive due to the fact that it is not clear if the inventive wheels tested pertain to the configuration set forth by the limitation of the claims. Namely, it is unclear whether any of the tested inventive wheels are actually the claimed invention.

Furthermore, the results shown in the table in the specification do not appear to show results, which would be unexpected to one of ordinary skill in the art. Namely, the results of the inventive wheels 1-4 are comparable to tested prior art wheel 1.

Furthermore, it is unclear whether the prior art wheels tested correspond to the wheel of Manabe used in the above rejection.

Conclusion

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
